Capt. Button, of the Danish brig Hetty, at this port, states that the unsettled aspect of political matters caused much anxiety throughout the Island, and tended in a great measure to check the already limited commercial transactions of the Empire. All offers of mediation by foreign Representatives were rejected. About the 6th of Oct. the Haytien fleet was expected to sail for the South. On the 30th of Sept. over 1,000 men embarked, and they took from the Fort all the cannon and other implements of war on board the Government bark Glover, and on the same day over 2,000 men marched for the South.

DRY GOODS.

We have papers from the City of Galveston to the 11th inst. Arrangements have been made to ship beeves extensively from Indianola to New-Orleans. The citizens of Indianola, illumined their bouses on receiving intelligence of the passage of the Pearce bill. Nim-teen-twentieths of them are in favor of the proposition. The Civilian proposes to make a very novel use of the money to be received from the United States. It thinks that after paying off the debt of Texas three millions will remain. This sum is to be received in U. S. Bonds bearing five per cent interest, which will yield a revenue of $150,000 per annum—more than sufficient to pay the whole expenses of the State Government. This would enable Texas to do what no other State has done—abolish all what no other State has done-abolish all
